

WHAT'S PDR?

Paintless Dent Removal commonly referred to as PDR, is a highly skilled process that repairs dents, dings and creases without harming a vehicles factory paint or creating the costly and time consuming need for traditional body shop repairs. PDR is the best way to maintain the value of your vehicle and is required on certified pre-owned programs & lease returns.

25+ YEARS

TriStatePDR Training is owned and operated by several Paintless Dent Repair technicians. Our team has been intimately involved with the PDR industry for more than 25 years, and take pride in guiding trainees with all the solutions to repair dents well in any situation.

More importantly, we are confident we can help trainees master the very techniques that have consistently led our TriStatePDR training team to superior results.

FUNDAMENTALS

We have a successful teaching method in which the fundamentals of TriStatePDR Training are ingrained in you unconditionally. We are aware that there are great trainers in the world worthy of instructing you. Frankly, the reputable nature of other trainers within the industry is what has fueled our teaching innovations. The scrutiny to withhold the integrity of PDR, from other technicians and trainers alike, has pushed us to create a program that will yield a fine technician. We understand that, your asking for the essential tools to provide for you or your family's living, to send your kids to college, and perhaps even, to dish out those beloved ten dollar checks for your grandchildren. If we have the opportunity to teach you PDR, we will not take what you've asked us to do lightly.

VISION

Individual vision is crucial to the learning process, since it is this vision that has led us all to PDR in the first place. Our trainees each have their own goals, and we help them fulfill their goals using the very skills each of our instructors has mastered along the way. And for those who already have a goal in mind, we do not teach the business side of the trade. We hope, instead, to be the bearers of knowledge, enthusiasm, and a passion for the craft that will inspire and motivate our trainees to succeed.

As TriStatePDR Training, we will discuss the reasons why you should choose us. We want you to choose a PDR training company that cares enough to devote everything to its trainees learning. We are fearful your resources will be wasted somewhere else by neglectful and irresponsible training. The key to your learning goes beyond a set of tools and a good technician who happens to be training that day. A good technician is of no use to you if he does not have a process for your PDR development.

YOUR NEW LIFE!

We know how frustrating it can be to do the simplest task in PDR. It is so challenging, in fact, we've decided to eliminate as much open thought as possible from the trainee. Your muscles and vision are going to do your thinking. We intend to teach you through repetitive exercises of all the applicable procedures of PDR. Through our continuous exercises, our method will trigger a subliminal response from the trainee. When you see a dent, you will instinctively grab a tool and fix it. The introductory phase of PDR learning will feel awkward and unnatural. You'll be sore, you'll see dents in your sleep, and you'll be confused about your life choices. Thankfully, throughout our process, it will become smooth & effortless, and we will support you every step of the way.
